

Gabriel N Shulman

Information Design + Product Development

+ ABOUT

The complex combination of user experience design and project management drew me to pursuing a graduate degree. I enjoy the chance to challenge myself and others while blending curriculum design, user experience and writing into a cohesive, enjoyable finished product. Bringing passion and fun to the workplace, I anchor those qualities on a solid bedrock of excellent business practices and a great work ethic.

+ Learn more at <https://www.linkedin.com/in/gabeshulman>

+ EXPERIENCE

August 2011 - Present

ORACLE Corporation Columbia, MD
Technical Trainer

Focusing on eLearning, project management & product development, and product evangelism, I am a focused and creative problem solver. Managing 2-3 projects simultaneously I get my work done well, have fun doing it and truly enjoy working in a collaborative environment.

July 2014 - December 2016

Roadi mobile application Baltimore, MD
Vice President, Product Development/
User Experience Design

As Vice President of UX Design, I headed the application's information architecture and graphical user interface development effort. My style, minimalist in "feel", leans heavily towards a simple and intuitive user interface.

February 2016 - Present

Gabriel Nathan Design LLC Columbia, MD
Owner/ Designer

My goal with GND is to help small businesses take their products to market using simple and easy to understand web tools. By employing template websites and initially controlling the design and content, I am able to create a well-organized site that best displays the clients message. I then train my clients on how to update content, import images and develop their websites on their own going forward.

+ COMPETENCIES

- + eLearning Curriculum Development
- + Classroom Training
- + Project Management
- + Product Development
- + Product Evangelism

+ EDUCATION

June 2015

University of Baltimore Baltimore, MD
Masters Degree: Publications Design

I embarked on this degree path in order to explore my love of the ever-changing aspects of design and function. The principles I have learned over the past 3 years have expanded the way I look at design, applications and the many, exciting ways we interact with the physical and digital world.

+ Major projects available for review at GabeShulman.com

June 2005

Towson University Towson, MD
Bachelor of Fine Arts: Mass Communication

My fascination with the design of what made a good advertisement and what the viewer took away from that experience, no matter how brief, led me to Towson's program. Here I focused not only on design but also organizational and interpersonal communication, topics I employ daily as a trainer and information designer.

April 2011

Drury University Springfield, MO, Online
Social Media Certification

Design and interaction can only get you so far in today's social media-based culture. Every interactive experience must have a social aspect or they will rarely achieve their full market potential. I learned how to write for different media outlets as well as how to manage multiple media streams and varied message formats.